

By no means should the Wisconsin No-Call protection be laxed. If Banks and the like can not get their point across in one call than they didn't need to call in the first place. How many times should the "consumer" have to say NO to get a point across!